Magic!! By Carolyn Rich

*There's magic in the air and mystery.
There's nonsense everywhere for you and me.
The black cat's eyes are bright,
The moon sails by
Deep in the whispering night
Across the sky.
The old clock says it's late;
Near twelve he thinks.
A pumpkin on the gate
Glow's red and winks.
The wind says, "W-h-e-w"
Around the house
The old man goes
Away without a second
Where? No one knows.
There's magic everywhere
And in between
The fire's flash and flare
A twinkle may be seen.
There's nonsense everywhere
And apple red and Green;
But ne'er a thought of care
This Halloween.*

Little Flower In the Now...

High school ELA students will be visiting the Bay Street Theater on November 15th to see the live performance of Death of a Salesman by Arthur Miller.

A tragedy is a dramatic composition dealing with a serious or somber theme, typically involving a great person destined to experience downfall. Death of a Salesman is a modern American tragedy because for a time, the protagonist, Willy Loman, was a great man. He is now suffering since he is not as successful as he used to be. He is now in debt, he is not as “well-liked” as he used to be, he is mentally ill, and he is cheating on his wife. Willy Loman is therefore considered a tragic hero.

The Foreigner Movie Review

By John Debello

The Foreigner with Jackie Chan is one of the greatest action movies in 2017. I give it 5 stars. The movie is about a man named Quan Ngoc Minh' aka Jackie Chan. His daughter died in a bomb explosion by a gang. He kept going to the police and asking them "who killed my daughter?" So Quan became very angry. He tried to bomb everything and started killing people. Soon there was warrant for his arrest. Law Enforcement is trying to find him to arrest him. He is still trying to find out who killed his daughter. So at the end he found out who was responsible for the death of his daughter. Its was a gang team. I give it 5 stars because it had a lot of action and wonder in it. Some parts were kind of sad in ways that relate to real life. This was a great movie I would recommend it to everyone.
