Interview

A chat with Ms Laverne Brown

By Antonio Touma

Why is Black History month important?

Ms Laverne: I believe Black History month is an important reminder of the changes our society has made. I think that not only does celebrating black history enlighten us on how one race has progressed but it also reflects how many races have come together.

Do African American women get enough credit?

Ms Laverne: I think the issue with women isn't limited to only African American women. I believe men and women don't understand one another and may not give each other credit.

Do all lives matter?

Ms Laverne: I believe all lives matter. I believe that police misconduct and the judicial system needs to be addressed. All races are affected by police brutality. I do believe it happens more so with African Americans. However, it should not happen at all. I hope that the "All Lives Matter" movement will change the hostility and injustices of all people.
